NEW BUSINESS

1. Summit NJ honored racing legend Mark Donohue Jr. as Chelsea Asitimbay advocated for preserving his childhood home [68 Valley View Avenue] <https://www.tapinto.net/towns/summit/sections/arts-and-entertainment/articles/intern-highlights-race-car-legend-s-roots-amid-brad-pitt-f1-buzz>
2. Demolition applications/permits
 - 573 Springfield Avenue: An 1880 altered Queen Anne home with a historic name, Porter House. The exterior wall fabric is aluminum siding over original. <https://www.summitlibrary.org/wp-content/uploads/2023/09/Springfield-Ave-to-Waldron-Ave-Vol-8-part-2.pdf> p3. The City of Summit Historic Preservation Plan Element (VII. Master Plan) goals states “that it is in the public interest to identify and conserve sites and districts of historic interest.” While the proposed design meets the design guidelines and utilizes quality material, the HPC recommends restoration and adaptive reuse as a first consideration.
 - 695 Springfield Avenue: Red Cross/Beacon Unitarian Universalist Congregation in Summit. <https://www.summitlibrary.org/wp-content/uploads/2023/09/Springfield-Ave-to-Waldron-Ave-Vol-8-part-2.pdf> p65-66 1901. The house was built as the home of David Leslie Young, who moved to Summit from Brooklyn in 1900. The Young family had a lumber and millwork business in New York City, and artisans from the shop are said to have supervised construction of the house's interior. The Young family occupied the house until 1945. In 1959, it was purchased by the Red Cross, and has been used as their offices since that time. The house was a notable architectural achievement, harmoniously combining elements of Tudor half timbering, Mediterranean stucco and arcades, and prairie style emphasis of roof and chimney.
